Thoughtful Thursday— Success

Great American historian Charles Kendall Adams studied the lives of many great men and women. After years of studying he decided that

No one ever achieves great success by simply doing what is required of him.

Mr. Adams is saying that successful people give a little extra effort. They go the extra mile.

So ask yourself this: Am I doing only what is asked of me, or am I willing to give a little extra in order to be the best I can be? Then try this little experiment: Tonight, surprise your parents by doing an extra chore around the house, or put in a little extra study time or practice ten minutes more on your musical instrument. Follow the lead of great men and women everywhere and get into the habit of doing more than simply what’s required.

All paperwork will be due by 3:30 pm on February 4th. Late paperwork will not be accepted.

Holiday Party Protocol

In order to allow time to check ingredients and allergies, we are asking that by Wednesday, February 6th, all rooms who plan to serve any food, snacks or drinks submit ingredient lists for all items to the nurse office for review. This gives us enough time to review, approve, clarify, and return before parties take place on February 14th. Feel free to submit earlier so you may place orders. Thank you for keeping our school safe for all students. Please contact your room mom with questions.

CULTURAL CORNER

Next month is African American History Month in the United States. It is an annual celebration of achievements by African Americans in U.S. history. Now is a good time to start thinking about some of the contributions made by African Americans. Did you know that some of their inventions include the traffic light, a fire extinguisher, the ironing board, the refrigerator, and the elevator?

Marlins, this week we're asking you to: Write at least one invention that has been contributed by an African American. Place one answer slip in a Cultural Corner box by the end of the school day this Thursday for your chance to win a prize and have your picture displayed in a "Cultural Corner Cove" in the hallway. Your Student Council members will select 1 primary and 1 upper grade student from a raffle during Friday morning announcements.
